

Abstract

The present invention relates to stable compositions, such as, but not limited to, calibrators, controls and test samples, that can be used in ligand-binding assays and methods for making said compositions.